

One goal. Three priorities.

THE GOAL IN NUMBERS

80% > 20%

Oliver's share of the sales pipeline by year-end — the number that defines the year.

"If you can't measure it, it isn't a goal yet."

THE THREE PRIORITIES

Anchor every conversation to these three.

PRIORITY	WHAT IT MEANS	THE MEASURE
01 Decrease the Oliver pipeline	› Decrease Bullpen's dependency on Oliver for new business.	Oliver's pipeline goes from 80% → 20%.
02 Oliver leading more than selling	› Aligns Oliver's long-term interests with Bullpen's. › The sales team rolls up to Oliver, not Tyler. › Oliver onboards and develops salespeople as successful as he is. › Structured onboarding — Oliver knows exactly what to do.	50% of time selling · 50% leading. Ramp targets set from historical data prove it's working.
03 World-class training & onboarding	› Effective weekly group trainings — engaging, people learn a lot, and they're excited to do sales in this business. › Systematize onboarding so it's more predictable.	Successfully transition 3 recruiters to sales.

THE METHOD

1 Name the goal in numbers

2 Choose exactly three priorities

3 Define and measure each one

4 Anchor every conversation to them
